Once, Lord Kubera had organised a feast and had sent an invite to many guests that included the Devas and several others. He visited Mount Kailasha, the abode of Lord Shiva and his consort Mata Parvati, to invite them as well. The Lord and his wife thanked Kubera for the invite but said that they wouldn't be able to attend the ceremony.

August 5, 2016. Ganesha is one of the most well-known and well-loved of all the Hindu deities. He is the son of Shiva and Parvati, while it is unclear exactly how he came into being, my favourite is that he was created by Shiva's laughter. He is called 'Ganapati', the lord of the people. This happy, friendly deity has been adopted by people across cultures who are drawn to his many arms and elephant head.
